The American Revolution was fought because Britain had 11/5/09 started the pointless war against Black. The British won all of them, and they had won in 1766. So mercantilism had started. And mercantilism is when you have more exports than imports. And so the British started taxing everything and that is when the colonists got mad because the British was taxing everything and doing the colonists wrong. So the colonists started attacking back like dumping tea over board. The ships and stuff like that.
