On the bottom of the left-hand page is a copy of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, which basically abolished all forms of segregation (segregation occurs when two groups of people are prevented from coming in contact with one another). In the early 1900s, African Americans had to attend different schools, use different bathrooms, and even drink from different water fountains.

The idea of segregation seems crazy in today's world. In the space below, write why you think that the legal segregation of the early 1900s was wrong. What kind of message did it send?

I think it's wrong because blacks and whites should get to be friends.
I think it sent bad message and made blacks feel bad because the whites stuff was better.